

The Many Faces of Effective Leaders

Group Exercise

As your group reads together the article The many faces of effective leaders, by Harvey Mackay, underline all the leadership attributes (the article calls the attributes 'ingredients') that are mentioned in the article. After finishing the article, identify below ten leaders of the world, past or present, that you feel has had a significant and measurable influence in our world. You can draw leaders from the world of business, military, politics, entertainment, sports, etc..., Next to each of the ten leaders, write down on the line provided to the side their area of influence/occupation and one specific leadership attribute that was identified in the article. After completing this exercise, each member of your group will need to sign their name in the designated area at the bottom of this paper.

Leader's Name	Area of Influence	Attribute
